The Royal Family have, however, taken considerable interest in Ferdinand's career since he went to Bulgaria, as his father, Prince Augustus of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha, who died in 1881

A PAGEANT PREPARING AT ROME.

One of the great features of the silver wedding next week will be the reproduction of some of the historic tornels or jousts of the House This picturesque function is fixed for April 25, to take the form of a series of musical quadrilles in costume representing successively the ounts and Dukes of Savoy, Kings of Sardinia, and finally Kings of Italy. In the first tableau, the Duke of Aesta wi'l take the part of Humbert I, wearing second quadrille the Duke of Abruzzi will i Amadeo VIII, and the Count of Turin, Amadeo II. As a finale there will be a parade of 100 horsemen ing the devices of a hundred towes in Italy. Every person taking part in this magnificent spectacle belongs either to the Royal Family, or to the highest nobility. The Prince of Naples is to appear in the gorgeous robes of a Grand Master of the Order of the Annunziata. On April 26 a ball will be given Prince Doria Pamphili, president of the Roman Committee for the silver wedding fetes. At this the King Queen, the German Emperor and Empress, the whole Royal Family and all the royal personages in Rome e present. The entertainment will cost the hest an almost fabulous sum. All the decorations come LORD MAYOR'S RECEPTION TO THE CARDINAL

Cardinal Pole was the last Prince of the Church in England to be received by the Lord Mayor of London with the state which marked the reception of Cardinal Vaughan last Wednesday night. The occasion was unique that it can no longer be said of the Jesuit Fathers that they never, never dine out, but only that hey hardly ever do; for Father Hayes, Father Eyre, Father Heathcote and Father Bernard Vaughan, the ardinal's brother, were among the most entertaining of the Lord Mayor's guests. Lord Petre, who had accepted an invitation, did not come to occupy the put for him. Lord Ripon had a previous political engagement in the North of England. THE DUKE OF NEWCASTLE'S TOUR.

The Duke of Newcastle's voyage round the world Gambler Bolton, who is well known in artistic circles and a bulky volume will be the result. Last year Duke and Mr. Bolton devoted some weeks to a similar combination of their talent in England, when they explored several counties

DUKE OF SUTHERLAND'S SALE This week at Longton and Newcastle-under-Lyme there are to be large sales of building land and ground rents on the Duke of Sutherland's Staffordshire estate. The sales will extend over five days, and an enoris amount of property in Newcastle, Stoke, Longton and other places in the district is to be offered.

MR. ASTOR TO HAVE A LONDON OFFICE. America before long is to lose one of her million nerely purchasing a London evening paper and an English ducal residence. He actually intends to as well as social purposes. Accordingly he has purchased a vacant piece of land on the Embankment and will shortly erect a large office which will accommodate a staff of upward of thirty clerks. He is conident that he can finance the world better from London than from New-York.

THE PREMIER COULDN'T GET HIS SON A SEAT. Mr. Gladstone has actually applied in vain for a seat for his own son for one of the galleries of the House of Commons last week. This experience of the Prime Minister and leader of the House of Commons is probably unique. As a rule, Cabinet Ministers do not experience great difficulty in getting a single order for one of the galleries, but the rush for seats of late has been almost without precedent. DOUBTFUL ABOUT THE HOME BULE BILL.

Even the more sanguine Liberals are beginning to be slinken in the belief that the Home Rul- bill t absolutely certain to pass safely through the House They realize that the present financial proposals of the measure are not to be accepted by section of Irishmen and they also see that it will be impossible to grant better terms from the rish point of view, without alienating the Radicals. It is, in fact, difficult to see how Mr. Gladstonsolve the dilemma. Probably mutual advantage will in the end cause a compromise, which canno prove satisfactory for long. Meanwhile, I have it on good authority that if anything does happen to the bill in the House of Commons the Premier intends at once to appeal to the country. He is well aware that neither party wants a general election till next year, but this does not weigh with him, and if occasion arises he will sacrifice all to his personal

LABOR LEADERS AT LOGGERHEADS

The relations which really prevail between the various labor leaders remind one of Dr. Johnson's account of the inmates of his house. Mr. Williams hates everybody. Mr. Levett hates Mr. Desmoulins and does not love Mr. Williams; Mr. Desmonlins hates them both. Mr. Poll loves none of them. Just n the same way we have Mr. Fenwick, M. P., who s parliamentary secretary to the Trade Union Congress, writing to the papers to state that the percentury messages of Alderman Ben Tillett need not be noticed, as his claims to leadership are not officially recognized. Then Mr. J. H. Wilson, M. P., is Alderman Tillett derides Mr. Wilson's pretensions to regarded as the boss of the Hull strike, and Mr Wilson returns the compliment by animadverting upon the tactics of Mr. Tillett. It is notorious that Mr. Keir Hardie is much exasperated at being thrown over last week by most of the other labor Members, wish on their side complained of his action as an unjustifiaencroachment upon the domain of Mr. Wilson. The rancorous rivalry between all these persons who appear to live on industrial strife would be highly diverting if it were not for the grievous mischle

A SAILORS' FIGHT AT THE PIRAEUS.

While the crew of the Colossus were enjoying general leave at the Piracus, early in the present month, the men of the French cruiser Troude and sian sloop Donetz came to words and then turbance at one time seemed likely to develop into ous trouble, but this was without difficulty averted by explanations, apologies and time. The liquor-sellers in the Piracus, whom Jack of all countries must patronize, are not at all particular as to the quality of the liquor they serve out to their customers. In fact, in all Mediterranean ports, from Gib-raltar to Beyrout and from Algiers to Trieste, it is obtful if there is any place where worse liquer is got than at the Piracus

OSCAR WILDE'S NEW PLAY.

Oscar Wilde's new play, to be produced at the Haymarket to-morrow night, shows Mrs. Rernard Beere in a phase of character which she has not previously ented, that of a mother with a grown-up son The dialogue is said to be well filled with Mr. Wilde's usual quips, original and selected. Should the author be summoned to be complimented, it will probably be

C. E. WHARPE'S LITERARY PROPERTY. The literary property of the famous Charles Kirk-

The collection includes numerous autograph letters and manuscripts by Sir Walter Scott, who was one of Sharpe's most intimate friends, and many highly interesting genealogical and family history notes, as well as numerous privately printed books and presentation copies. Perhaps the two items which would afford most entertainment are sharpe's copies of the Douglass Peerage and Ludy Charlotte Bury's are full of his own manuscript notes.

MR. WINANS MAY GIVE UP HIS DEER FORESTS. THE CRAVEN-MARTIN WEDDING

TO TAKE PLACE IN GRACE CHURCH TO DAY

A GREAT BUT UNSATISFIED DEMAND FOR IN-VITATIONS

The wedding of William George Robert, fourth Earl of Craven, and Miss Cornelia Martin, only daughter of Bradley Martin, of New-York, which will take place to-day at 1 o'clock in Grace Church, is the all absorbing topic of conversation in society. Although Mr. and Mrs. Bradley Martin's circle of friends | part of Mabel Vane, one easily rulned by the slightest is large, there are many people in society who have not been invited even to the church ceremony. Every conceivable method has been used to gain invitations to the ceremony, but in no case have Mr. and Mrs.

Bradley Martin given one to any one not on their visiting list. As was announced in The Tribune of Sunday the wedding will be after the English fashion. The bride will enter the church with her father and will be followed by her bridesmalds. The ushers instead of heading the procession as they are accustomed to do at New-York weddings will pass down the side alsles and stand in double file on either side of the chancel steps so that the bridal party may pass between them. Bishop Potter and the Rev. Dr. William R.

Huntington, rector of Grace Church, will conduct the It will be useless for these who have no cards of Invitation to make an attempt to get into the church.

A line of policemen will guard the aproaches and will permit no person to pass who is without the requisite silver printed billet.

The floral decorations will be on a scale of great beauty. American Beauty roses and lilies will be used on and about the altar and just at the head of the broad aisle will be erected an arch of these flowers. After the ceremony a large reception will be held at the home of the bride's parents in West Twentieth-st. Although it has been impossible to invite each member of all the families of their ac quaintance, it is probable that between 600 and 700 guests will be present. At the house there will be the same lavish decoration with flowers. It is said that nearly every one of importance in society has sent beautiful gifts and these already number three hundred and more. The bridesmalds, as al-ready announced, will be Miss Ethel Davies, Miss Alice Rochester, cousins of the bride; Miss Sybil Sherman and Miss Dalsy Post. The Hon. Rupert Coell Craven, formerly of the Royal Navy, will be his brother's best man. Frederick Townsend Martin and Bradley Martin, jr., uncle and brother of the bride, Alonzo Potter, James Abercrombie Burden, Jr., J. Wadsworth Ritchie and Hamilton Carey will be the ushers. Three thousand invitations have been sent out, but many of these have gone to people in England and different parts of Europe. It is said that 1,500 people can be accommodated in Grace Church.

TO ATTEND THE FUNERAL OF THOMAS IL. DUDLEY Camden, N. J., April 17 (Special).-The Camden County Bar Association held the largest attended meeting in its history this afternoon, when it was called together to take action on the death of its president and senior member, Thomas H. Dudley, the ex-Consul, who dropped dead in Philadelphia last Saturday. Many of the most prominent member-made touching addresses and resolutions culogizing Mr. Dudley were passed. The association will attend the funeral in a body to-morrow at moon from "The Grange," Mr. Dudley's estate at Dudley.

REMEMBERING THE POOR CHILDREN.

A highly successful fair has been held at the Laurel House, Lakewood, by four young people, one of them the daughter of Colonel Erhardt, for the benefit of The Tribune Fresh Air Fund. Considering the youth of the little misses who were engaged in this labor of love, the fact that they realized about $35 is highly creditable.

AMHERST ALUMNI TO MEET NEXT WEEK.

The Amherst College Young Alumni Association will hold its last dinner of the season at the St. Denis Hotel, on Tuesday evening, April 25. name of this organization is a trifle misleading, as all Amherst men in New-York and vicinity are in-cluded. It differs from the regular Amherst Alumni Association in holding several meetings each year. These gatherings are strictly informal and very popular. The members of the Executive Committee ar working like beavers to make their coming dinner a record-breaker.

Dr. Edward Hitchcock, beloved by every Amherst man, is to be present to represent the faculty, and there will be representatives from the Boston and Washington alamni associations. The dinner will be served at small tables, with the toastmaster and invited guests in the centre, and there is to be n prize table for the class having the largest attendance, an arrangement which is expected to cause no end of fun and enthusiasm. The annual election will occur before the dinner. Amberst men desiring tickets should address the secretary, E. E. Jackson, jr., No. 93 Nassau-st.

DISCUSSING BISHOP BROOKS'S SUCCESSOR.

Boston, April 17 (Special).-A meeting of prominent Episcopalians of this diocese, representing the Conservative wing of the Church, was held to-day, and the different candidates to succeed Bishop Brocks were discussed at length. It was finally decided to appoin a committee to meet the Liberal wing, and to give the committee full powers to represent the Conserva-tives in this matter.

THE DRAMA.

MISS COGHLAN AS PEG WOFFINGTON. At the Fifth Avenue Theatre last night Miss Rose loghlan revived her fascinating performance of Charles Reade's excellent comedy, "Masks and Faces," which she presents under the title of "Peg Wollington." Her performance of the title part has been often seen and always admired here. It overflows flary of the times of George IVth, both of which with vitality and exaberance of spirit which artistically reveal while they seem aiming to conceal the sorrowing resentment of a wronged and wounded heart. part is unusually adapted to Miss Coghlan's nature and faculties of expression, and is one of the most agreeable in which she is accustomed to offer herself to the public. Her reappearance in it is thoroughly welcome, and gives an opportunity for much enjoy ment. The play was altogether admirably acted.

John T. sullavan played the rather ungracious part of Ernest Vane, with constant taste and discrimination. Frederick Robinson gave a feeling performance of Triplet. It is a part which may exhibit much delicacy and tenderness of nature, pattence in struggle and disappointment and quiet happiness and gratitude in pr sperity. All these Mr. Robinson fully realized. B. Folk appeared for the first time as a member of this company, playing the part of Colley Cibber. He is an artist of recognized ability, and he received a deserved welcome. His performance of this small part was one of the pleasantest features of the evenlng's entertainment. Miss Marie Burress is another newcomer here, though she has some reputation else facility and delicacy of expression. She made her roughness of handling, a consistent and effective part of the general picture. Miss Kuhne Beveridge, an actress of little experience gs yet, appeared as Mrs. Triplet, and was altegother good and acceptable. Miss Eleanor Lane, as Kitty Clive, furfilled the requirements of the part in personal attractiveness and Courtney Thorpe, as Sir Chorles Pomander, stopped short, as usual, at grace and elegance of manner.

MR. STANFORD ON HORSES AND POLITICS

GAGEMENT WITH GENERAL HARRISON. Senator and Mrs. Lehnd Stanfort, of California,

After good roads, what? Good horses, to be sure. No use of good roads without good herses. Not only must greater speed be secured, but greater endurance greatest economies which the people of the United States can practise. Take, for instance, the horses on the Fifth ave, coaches," and the senator with a gesture directing attention to the street; "the average length of their usefulness is three years. Really go horses would last six years. I do not think it is to of our horses can be increased or e-half. Just think what that means in the aggregate of 16,000,000 in this country. It means that the value of the horwould be greatly increased-to the extent of million of dollars

"I believe in thoroughbred blood myself, and my ploughing, draw larger loads and do better work than an inferior animal. I raise horses with this in view I seldom race my horses and never bet on thom."

Senator Stanford said that ex-President Harrison' lectures at Leland Stanford, jr., University in the fall would be on International Law. "We are surely he said. "I have suggested to General Harrison the he lecture upon the possibilities and advantages of a congress of the leading nations of the world to settle their disputes by arbitration. He is now preparing the lectures. There will be probably about a dozen. General Harrison intends to take up his law practice, and could scarcely leave his home long enough to deliver more lectures. He will probably be in California only about two months.

fornin only about two months."

The Senator is of the opinion that the Democratic party will be defeated in 1836, because it will be maile to redeem its promises. If it cuts down the tariff, as it has promised, it will have a deficit in the Treasury. If it does not cut it down, it will have no issue on which to go to the country.

BOILERS WRECKED BY DYNAMITE.

Pittsburg, April 17 .- An explosion occurred at the Vesuvius Iron Works, Sharpsburg, late on Saturda; night which wrecked the battery of boilers, burresulted in no other damage. The explosion was caused by a dynamite cartridge mysteriously placed in a coal-slack. It is believed that an attempt was in a coal-sinck. It is beneved that an attempt was made to blow up the mill. Since the failure of the late strike colored men have been superseding the whites, and the feeling against the negroes is very bitter. There are 150 men, mostly colored, working near the boilers, and that some of them were not killed or injured is providential. A thorough in-vestigation is being made.

FATAL ACCIDENT TO AN AERONAUT.

AN ESSAY ON APPRECIATION. From The Boston Advertiser.

From The Boston Advertiser.

It was in a picture gallery and her escort was showing her its principal points of interest. He admired the proper pictures with true Bostonian correctness, and his emimently respectable sonl was torn within him by her iconoclastic tastes. Ife lingered leside the Paderewski portrait with soulful appreciation and almost clasped his hands and lifted his eyes as he ejaculated, "Is it not beautiful." She looked it over critically and said calmly: "Very good painting, but I wish the man were not such a freak. All that red hair is such an affectation. I should like him much better if he were more sincere. Hate posents:" Her escort turned sadly away and vandered to the other side of the gallery, where he came to a sudden stop with an exclamation: "Ah, this Renoft! Is it not too lovely!" She regarded it with a distinctly contemptious glance as she replied: "Awfully sorry, dear fellow, but I ran't agree with you. I never could endure worsted embroderies. Seem such a waste of time, except for afghans and slumber robes and that sort of thing. Can't see any reason for framing them, though." The book of horror on his expressive face was interesting us he aspect in almost tracic tones: "Oh, surely you like it. Why, Renoir is simply great! He paints almost better than Monet." She examined the picture with great pretence of care and then said in a voice of extreme surprise: "Why, It really is paint! Well, I am not sure that I don't prefer the worsted. One does not expect mything of that, and it seems rather a pity to use or misuse good paint in such a fashion." And then she turned away to look at a quiet landscape

PRIZES CAUSE TROUBLE.

ACADEMY OF DESIGN COUNCIL VEXED.

JUSTIFYING THE PORTE'S ACTION. THE FACTS ABOUT THE ALLEGED PERSECUTION OF CHRISTIANS-AMERICAN LEGATION'S LETTERS NOT OPENED.

Constantinople, April 17.-H. R. Newberry, Secretary of the United States Legation in this city, who returned last week from Cesarca and Marsovan, where he investigated the recent reports of the persecution of Christians by Mahometans, and the burning of the Marsovan College, the Institution conducted by Dr. Herrick, has made a statement in an interview in regard to the origin of the disturbances.

Mr. Newberry appears to consider the action of the Turkish authorities as in part, at least, justifiable says that the disturbances had their beginning in Turkish or Armenian conspirators inciting the popu lace to revolt by seditions placards, which fastened on the doors of the American school. These language, were of an inflammatory and treasonable character, and declared that it was necessary for the people to shake off the yoke of slavery laid on them by the tyrannical Sultan. Mr. Newberry also found that bombs charged with dynamite had been seized by the authorities. On account of these facts showing that a genuine and dangerous plot existed, he considered that the arrest of the plotters was

Mr. Newberry denied the truth of the report that letters addressed to the American Legation had been opened by the Turkish authorities. The lefters, he explained, had been delayed, owing to the couriers who carried the letters being provided with bad horses, and owing to the insufficiency of the escorts norses, and owing to the instructively of the econics to protect the courlers from the dangers of travel in Asia Minor. The American Legation has therefore demanded that the Turish postoffice authorities shall organize an efficient and well-protected mail service, travelling at more frequent intervals, and giving prompter and more regular delivery than at present.
